LIVES OF 120 PERSONS ON COBEQUID MAY STILL BE SAVED
SAY TODAY'S REPORTS.

AID IS BEING RUSHED

Dozen Steamers Brave Rough Seas
On Way to Assistance of Wrecked
Mail Boat on Grand
Manon Ledges.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Yarmouth, N. S., Jan. 14.—The Royal Mail Packet company's steamer, Cobequid, was sighted around on Trinity Ledges near where the fog lifted today. The greater part of the steamer's crew was seen and it is believed that those on board are safe.

St. John's, N. B., Jan. 14.—The faint purr of an "S. O. S." call from the missing steamer Cobequid was picked up at several points in the Bay of Fundy today and revived hope for the safety of the vessel and the hundred and twenty people on board.

The wireless was not sufficiently strong or continuous to give the location of the vessel, but indicated that she had survived a tempestuous night and that there was still a chance for her passengers and crew.

Liner Gets Call.
The Canadian Northern liner Royal George caught the cry of distress three times and heard the steamer Lady Laurier replying, asking for the location of the Cobequid, but no response from the Cobequid could be made out. The Lady Laurier could not be near the wreck today. It is still believed that the Cobequid struck on one of the Grand Manon ledges and that Captain Hawson mistook the point for Briar Island when he first called for assistance at daylight yesterday.

Wreckage began to come ashore on the Yarmouth side of the Bay of Fundy today. It was apparently from a steamer and made plain from the weather. The wreckage was seen through heavy seas. It is now beyond wireless range, but was thought to be close to Grand Manon.

Still Afloat.
The S. S. Cobequid, above water at ten o'clock this morning according to a message received by the agents here. A telephone message from the Canadian Northern Steamship Royal George in port here, announced that the royal George had struck an "S. O. S." call from the Cobequid.

Efforts to ascertain the standard steamer's position failed as there was no response to the Royal George's queries.

Earlier Report.
The fate of the Royal Mail steamer Cobequid, with 120 persons aboard, remained unknown early today, twenty-four hours after the receipt of her wireless message saying that the vessel was caught on a ledge in the Bay of Fundy and was filling. Vessels sent to her assistance ploughed through heavy seas all day yesterday and last night without catching a glimpse of her.

A thick vapor overhangs the bay, making the search exceedingly difficult.

Rescuers Missing.
The exact position of the steamer when she sent her call for help was still in doubt this morning, although her message said the Cobequid which was bound for St. John's from the British West Indies had struck a ledge off Briar Island, no trace of her was found by a steamer which made a circuit of the island. It was generally thought that she had grounded on Murr Ledge off Grand Manon on the western side of the bay.

Definite News.
The Canadian government steamer Lady Laurier and the U. S. revenue cutter Woodbury were expected on the scene today and from these vessels definite information was looked for as to whether the Cobequid had been able to keep afloat in the terrible weather or slid off the ledge into deep water and sunk.

Still Dangerous.
Boston, Jan. 14.—Although the northwest gale had abated somewhat today the New England coast was still lashed by terrific seas and shipping was endangered.

Not a word had been learned early in the day as to what became of the crew of six men who abandoned the schooner John Paul, which was picked up by the revenue cutter Acushnet in Nantuxet Bay Sunday and afterwards sank. The British schooner Greta and a fishing schooner, Two Brothers, were still missing.

The temperature remained below zero in New England. Trains were delayed by the difficulty in making steam.

Arendt discovered Zastrow in the act of pilfering the Goodrich house and opened fire. Several shots were exchanged and when wounded Zastrow fled. He went to the home of M. C. Moore, another wealthy east sider, where he hid. His entrance was covered by revolvers in the hands of three women members of the family.

He fled when ordered out of the house and boarded a car from which he was taken in an unconscious condition by the police. Zastrow escaped from the Green Day reformatory in September to which he was sent for highway robbery when but 17 years old.

BOARD TO CLEAN UP STATE LABOR CAMPS

Health of State Endangered by Unsanitary Conditions in Laboring Camps, Especially Ice Field Barracks.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 14.—The labor camps of Wisconsin are a menace to the health of the state according to a report submitted to the state industrial commission, by William J. Leiserson, superintendent of the free employment bureau department.

Leiserson has just completed an investigation of the various labor camps, including the lumber, railroad, ice, dock, paper mill, canning camps and the camps of several minor industries.

Here is what Leiserson found on his tour of inspection: Fifty thousand men live in Wisconsin's labor camps. Twenty thousand of these work in the lumber camps. Twenty thousand live in railroad camps.

The other ten thousand are divided among the ice field barracks and other industries.

In the lumber camps he found the food good, but sleeping conditions exceedingly bad. Kitchens generally were clean, but the bunk houses were uncared for and unsanitary.

Railroad camps are divided into two classes—"White Men's" and foreigners' camps.

Foreigners' camps are run by the men themselves, the road furnishing cars equipped with stoves for cooking and blankets. Planked off in both ends of the car, the rest of the space being devoted to storage of food and fuel.

"White men's camps," conducted by contractors who board white men for stated prices, usually consist of a coal car, kitchen, dining and bunk cars. No attempt is made at sanitation.

Food is poor with the blame put for the most part on the cooks. By the time the food reaches the men in the ice field barracks, it is stated, are forced to take winter jobs for what they can get. Scores of laborers are quartered in old farm houses, the use of only one family. In several cases the barracks were tumble-down structures deserted by former owners and of little use. Repaired and filled with bunks and equipped with tables, they serve for the men's quarters. In two instances, model barracks were found.

Board is about on par with that found in the railroad camps. The men receive from 15 to 17 cents an hour, the same as years past, but board has increased from $3.00 to $3.50 per week.

Leiserson stated in his report that little attention is paid to sanitary conditions in any of the camps. Little work is done to prevent the disease from spreading to the outside world once it breaks out. Of 15 cities investigated where men congregate from labor camps, hospitals, records showed that 10 of the cities had no traceable to the camps. Cases directly traceable to the camps, smallpox, 12; typhoid, 159; cases; smallpox, 12; diphtheria, 6; other communicable diseases 23.

An item of $25,000 to provide capital for the plan has been secured in the city's annual appropriation. The city committee and the expectation is that it will be passed upon favorably by the council.

PRESIDENT WILSON SEEKS TO MAP OUT TRUST LEGISLATION

HOLDS SERIES OF CONFERENCES WITH DEMOCRATIC HENCHMEN TODAY.

ANXIOUS FOR HARMONY

Hopes That Administration Measure May Embody All Trust Reform Views and Keep Big Business Friendly.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 14.—President Wilson conferred today with congressional leaders on trust legislation. He talked first with Senator Newlands and later with the senate industrial commission, held a second conference with Chairman Clayton and members of the house judiciary committee. It is possible that the latter committee the president gave a preliminary outline of the ideas before congress recessed three weeks ago. Today he discussed special views in his program with both committees. So far it is possible it is the intention of the administration to obtain from these committees bills upon which all their members are agreed, and this is the president's hope that may be consulted under the bills launched with the stamp of administration approval as was the case with the tariff and currency.

"Hope for Harmony."
An effort will be made to distinguish for the business world those measures which have the backing of the president and those which may represent individual views of members of congress, which are the president's friends. Members of the senate industrial commission hope to reduce the number of personal bills to a minimum.

It was said today that the president's forthright message satisfied the views of every member of the cabinet, and that these members in close touch with the business world believe the industry of the country will find heartening reassurance in it.

Members of the senate committee after a two hours' conference with the president, said he had read them his message and discussed many of its details at length.

Some of the senators had no doubt that an interstate trade commission with limited powers to assist the courts in carrying out decrees of dissolution would be created. They all agreed that some sort of legislation prohibiting interlocking directorates would be put through, that penalties would be imposed in every case upon individuals, and the personal guilt would be distinctly marked.

The main point in the discussion was the extent to which the Sherman law would be supplemented. The president is understood to have pointed out that it was necessary to remove all doubt as to what constituted a restraint of trade, believing that public sentiment no longer was that restraint of trade could be reasonable.

Concentrate Attention.
The president, it was said, seemed to think that it would be well to concentrate attention of congress on the trust legislation so as to have it out of the way by June.

The president also, it was said, laid emphasis upon the spirit with which the task should be approached, contending that since big business was manifesting a disposition to conform to the spirit of the times, it was desirable to treat the problem with a spirit of friendliness and co-operation rather than of radical antagonism.

DENIES REPORT THAT WORK INJURED EYES

Wisconsin Phone Manager Claims Operating Work Does Not Affect Girls' Eyes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Jan. 14.—That Wisconsin telephone girls do not "wear out" because of the strain on their eyes, as recently reported in statistics made public concerning New York and Philadelphia was the statement here today of Francis H. Lincoln, traffic manager of the Wisconsin Telephone company, with headquarters in Milwaukee.

"I do not know that any of our operators have been suffering from eye strain," said Lincoln. "It is true the average length of service is thirty-three months, but I believe the young women quit to get married or to adopt other occupation not because of the strain on their eyes."

According to the statistics, there are in the United States about 125,000 telephone girls whose average term of service is three years or less.

The longest loss was about eight per day, the number of calls running from about 140 per hour to 225 during the rush hours.

The operator sits facing the switch board that is covered with numbers, each number having a small signal lamp attached. When a person calling raises the receiver a light flashes at "central" and continues to burn until the call is answered. When the light flashes the desired number the light burns until the person called answers his phone.

When the call is ended and the receivers are replaced, both lights flash and burn until the plugs are removed. To complete one call means four flashes of lights.

"With the calls averaging 140 per hour, with a maximum of 225 during the 'rush hours,' the operators' eyes are exposed to 500 to 1,000 flashes of light every hour. This the New York report says, results in fatiguing the optic nerve, to say nothing of the mental and physical strain under which operator is working constantly.

Although every step has been taken by the employers to lighten the girls' work, the average term of service remains at three years, says the report, and at the end of that time the hardest operators are likely to develop symptoms of nervousness, such as headache, dizziness, exhaustion, nervousness, insomnia, colds, and many a forced to seek some other occupation.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Jan. 14.—Damage of $200,000 was sustained here Tuesday night by fire, which threatened to destroy the greater part of the business and leading residence section.

The fire started in some manner in the C. Karlen garage which occupied the Monroe Manufacturing company's four-story building, devoted to the manufacture of vehicles. This building is in ashes this morning and the firemen had to devote all of their attention to adjoining buildings.

Contents Not Saved.
Two other buildings were destroyed including the plant of the Monroe Herald and the residence of D. C. Ryan. Nothing could be saved from any of the buildings or the residence.

The buildings threatened with destruction were the Ludlow hotel, the Universalist church and the Y. M. C. A. All of which were damaged.

The heavy loss was sustained by the Monroe Manufacturing company whose entire equipment, machinery, manufactured and raw material were burned. Insurance was carried in the case, but it is estimated that this morning that this will be only a fraction of the total loss.

Fifty Autos Burned.
Nearly all the wealthy residents of the city suffered from the fire as their automobiles, stored in the Karlen auto garage, were burned, together with those of the company, fifty in all.

JAPANESE PREPARE TO PROVIDE RELIEF TO HOMELESS HORDE

GOVERNMENT VESSELS WILL CARRY FOOD AND SUPPLIES TO STRICKEN ISLAND.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Tokio, Japan, Jan. 14.—Official reports this afternoon from Southern Japan, where volcanic eruptions and earthquakes have been killing and maiming, and great property damage are that the eruption of volcano of Sakurajima which has caused the most devastation, is abating.

Just how heavy has been the loss of life cannot yet be estimated. Sakurajima, where the great loss of life undoubtedly occurred, cannot be visited because the eruption of Sakurajima continues. The injury in this respect must wait. Troops and warships are now in the vicinity and a search of the island will be made at the first opportunity.

Reports from Nearby Cities.
Kagoshima, the nearest big city to Sakurajima, while it suffered great damage from the earthquakes does not appear to have sustained a severe loss of life. Higashimura, a small town, is reported to have suffered a great loss of life. Other telegrams report that the barracks, the temples and the shrines and the temples were among the buildings wrecked in Kagoshima. The soldiers are camped in the squares and the population has sought refuge in the shrines and temples in the hills.

Americans Are Safe.
The postoffice was one of the first buildings to collapse. Kagoshima at the state of the earth's surface. The staff escaped and after the first panic erected a hut in a field and are now busily engaged in repairing the telegraph equipment.

Kagoshima is protected from looters by patrolled police and troops. All Americans who were in the vicinity are safe. Word to this effect has been received from the American consul at Nagasaki, who telegraphed as follows: "A private telegram states that Americans in Kagoshima fled to Sendai near Kagoshima. All Americans were stationed at Kagoshima. Sakurajima at the height of its eruption, is pictured in reports as a smoking mountain. The eruption has been around a track with ash and smoke. The police and soldiers of Kagoshima, soon after the disturbance began, made many rescues from the island."

Boats Bring Aid.
The people at first did not seem to realize their danger and were slow in trying to escape. It is feared that many were killed before reaching the seashore. Thousands, pursued by a rain of stones, fell on the beach half submerged in water and perished. The water was so hot that the bodies were not found. One small steamer saved 300 persons while the other boats also did noble rescue work. The cruiser Tone reported yesterday that Sakurajima had been entirely evacuated.

The Japanese destroyers that were dispatched to the scene were unable to complete the journey. Stormy weather and high seas compelled them to return to Sasebo. The second squadron of armored cruisers, consisting of the Iwate, Tokiwa and Yamakaze was then hurriedly sent off and expected to reach Kagoshima tonight.

Thick atmosphere for the moment interferes with wireless reports. Official government reports, dated yesterday, reported that the place shrouded with ash, from the eruption of Sakurajima.

Enemies there are directed toward the reversal of the relief work. The water and rice may be sent to the hungry refugees near Kagoshima.

With the distress caused by the volcanic eruptions and earthquakes in the south, the government is bending every energy to relieve the double affliction. Naval vessels with food and other supplies will be sent as speedily as possible.

In Tokio this morning a symphony of rain in the air was followed by a squall thunder and rain. The storm is attributed to the volcanic eruption and the resulting disturbance in the south. The disturbance in the south, the government is bending every energy to relieve the double affliction. Naval vessels with food and other supplies will be sent as speedily as possible.

Entire Village Lost.
Miyazaki, Japan, Jan. 14.—A party of refugees from the volcanic island of Sakurajima arrived here today. They reported that the inhabitants of 300 houses, composing the village of Seto on that island, lost their lives in a single night. The village was completely annihilated. The refugees declare that hundreds were drowned in trying to swim across the gulf of Kagoshima. They said that the volcano Sakurajima has completely changed its form, several new craters having opened.

The hall of ashes ceased here today, after lasting through the night. Heavy rain has cleared the atmosphere.

ECONOMY TALK WILL BE IMPORTANT PART

IN COMING STATE CAMPAIGN—FARMERS ARE UP IN ARMS OVER INCREASED TAXES.

ONE PLATFORM IS MADE

Editor From Fennimore Sounds Slogan That Will Mark Epoch in State Affairs If It Is Believed.
(By Bob Acres.)

N. B. This article is written exclusively for the Gazette on state political matters.

Is it not Louis Mann who created the catch phrase, "It is to laugh," in his production of the "Girl from Paris" years and years ago? I think it was. Well, that just fits the present political situation in Wisconsin just at present. "It is to laugh," I do not know of anything that has been amusing to me as the scramble for office displayed on the part of the republican and democratic leaders regardless of what the issues are to be. I want to tell you one thing, that when those issues are decided it is going to be pretty hard sledding for some of those self-made candidates. It is not going to be a "Hip, Hip, Hurrah Boys, Follow the Leader." Remember God's nature is poor. Be fair-minded now and vote for the men who would down the trusts. It is going to be real sober deliberation, with the tax receipt in one hand and the ballot with their candidate and their platform in the other. I prophesy that the issue of the successful candidate will be based on an economical platform. Economy in state affairs; reduction in the cost of state government; reduction in the expenses of mismanaging the state university; reduction in the taxes of the average tax payer. Today the farmer, the small business man, the working man, the whole democratic system of government, is up and in arms. His taxes have reached a hitherto unheard of size.

It was all right as long as the corporations had to pay the big taxes, as long as the residents of cities suffered, but when it comes right home to the horny hand of toil, when his good old hard-earned money goes out to build new buildings for himself at the state capitol, to pay for useless and senseless commissions to travel round the state at so much per diem, when he is taxed and he kicks hard, and his kick is going to be registered by his vote and that is where the shoe pinches.

Really, it took an editor of a small newspaper at Fennimore to brave the lion in his den, to board the train in his hall, by announcing that he is a candidate for governor and that his platform was economy. Of course, the majority of citizens have never heard of H. E. Roethe, assemblyman with experience, and by the way, a brother of the late Prof. Roethe, who lived in Janesville and died in 1909. No one could have heard the state will take Mr. Roethe's platform, for years, and at last sees light. Former Governor Hoard also has seen light and hands out a few hot shots along this same line of reform from time to time, but alas! Hoard is old to lead the fight and younger men must go to battle. Roethe is willing, but I think too weak a sister for the struggle. Others, however, may be encouraged by his stand and steel their thunder, and gird their loins and go forth to fight.

Speaking of girding their loins for battle, I remember the late Ogden H. Fethers of your city, in seconding the nomination of the late Jeremiah Rusk, for many years our beloved governor, said, "As the Lord said to Jeremiah, 'Gird thy loins and take up thy spear and go forth to battle,' so say I to our Jeremiah, gird thy loins, take up that spear and go forth to battle." Rusk was elected and elected again, but I never forgot Fethers and his talk. I would that we had a Jeremiah among us today to gird his loins and go forth to battle this demon, this Goliath of reform, waste of the public funds.

But we get away from Roethe's statement. Let us all read it and ponder over it. He hits some pretty sore spots when he talks as he does and I wonder he dares. But faint hearted as our fair lady is, he has his pen regardless of the price of ink and salutes forth, offering himself as a willing sacrifice.

The people of Wisconsin are slowly but surely being taxed to death. The extremely high state tax has awakened them to the stern necessity of doing something to stop the rapid and enormous increase in taxes, which is a half of a century ago, they are able to bear; of the consequent necessity of rigid economy in the management of state affairs and cutting a halt in the matter of appropriations which have no limit; which has always been my position and what I contended for as a member of three legislatures. So I can not be accused of being a new convert to economy. Probably no other man ever sent to the legislature voted for as few appropriations as I, and when it came to commissions, rewards and other offices, I was opposed not only to creating new ones, but labored to have some of the existing ones abolished, believing we have more than necessary as it is. A time came in the large and unwarranted increase of state taxes, the multiplicity of offices, boards and commissions and I pledge myself, if chosen governor, to veto every bill which creates a new office, board or commission. I will make it a special point to clean up at the capital and see that no sinecures, unnecessary jobs and soft snaps are allowed to continue.

I have long ago come to the conclusion that the state, if economy were practiced, could be run on just about half the money that it is. Possibly my estimate is low, but there is no question but that a large saving could be effected with the exercise of economy, and if the looseness, extravagance and recklessness in the matter of appropriations no longer existed. Strict economy will be instrumental in lowering our taxes. I pledge myself, if chosen governor, to veto every bill that calls for an appropriation not absolutely needed.

I believe, also, that we could get along nicely with about half the laws we have. Again, my estimate may be low, still it is conceded that many of the existing statutes might be repealed to the great benefit of the commonwealth. The big flood of bills at every session of the legislature ought to be stopped. Too many laws are enacted. I pledge myself, if chosen governor, to veto every bill that reaches the executive chamber and will urge upon the legislature the desirability of passing fewer laws. Economy and lots of it is necessary also in the management of the state educational institutions, especially in the state university. The good work done by the university along many lines, notably by the college of agriculture, should be commended, but I think with appropriations of millions of dollars annually to the institution, the maintenance of the state and the maintenance of the payers, have both reached the limit, and the university should now cut the garment according to the cloth, and not be asking the legislature for constantly larger and larger appropriations. I pledge myself, if chosen governor, to veto every bill giving any further increase of money to the state university. Our whole system of education is topheavy as it is too much money, in my opinion, is spent for so-called "higher" education.

Contributing enormously to the tax burden, also, is our system of road building under state supervision. Not only does it result in making the cost to the several communities more than if they built the roads and bridges themselves, but under the existing law, and under the existing state aid, a virtual deception is practiced on them, as under mistaken impressions they are induced to vote a tax on themselves in the expectation of having some money free from the state, when in reality they are also taxed to furnish the very money that comes back as state aid, minus the percentage used up by the state in building the roads and bridges. I will advocate the repeal of the present law and the adoption of some better, simpler and less costly plan for building macadamized roads, and of improving our dirt roads with the use of the King drug as the best and a very inexpensive method of securing good roads.

Lastly, I believe in more "home rule," not concentrating everything at the state capitol, and having some one go out from Madison to tell the people now and in what way they must do everything. If chosen governor, I pledge myself to veto every bill encroaching upon the rights of counties or communities and tending to centralize control of local affairs at the state capitol. More "home rule" will result in lower taxes.

My whole thought as member of the legislature and of the finance committee at the last session was to be instrumental in effecting economy. Everybody makes mistakes of course, but I tried to do my duty and serve the interests of the people. I pledge myself, if chosen governor, to make economy and lower taxes the keynote to my administration, and what I shall strive for at all times, and on this issue ask support.

On the Spur of the Moment

Memories of Long Ago.
Once upon a time there was
An old man who was full of vim;
He was a czar, they called him so,
His name, we think, was Uncle Joe,
Oh, where could he have become of him?

A mighty hunter full of teeth,
To whom all potentates did bow,
Spread terror in the land,
And came home honored, sung and tanned,
Oh, where, oh, where can he be now?

A hardy naval man did wend
His way through mists of ice; and snow,
Until he reached his chosen goal,
Where's Feary? Anybody know?

A wireless operator sat key
With courage grim and worked his key
He got the wreath the hero wins.
Let's see, his name? Oh, yes,
Jack Binnis.
Someone should know, oh, where is he?

Some of the older residents
Perchance may recollect the name
Of Taft. He is "most forgot."
That seems to be the common lot
Of those carelessly by fickle fame.

The Diary of the Bonehead.
When I bought my home on the
Which chanced to be the frozen pole,
I planned to pay $500 and the balance eventually, at the rate of $25 per month. It looked great and I felt for it so hard that it is a wonder I didn't fracture a few bones.
I didn't sit down and figure it out till several months afterward, when I found it was costing me more to live than though I had stayed down town in a $75 flat.
I found first of all that $5 of this monthly payment appeared on the principal while only $20 of it went for interest. In my own fool way I had figured that the entire $25 would go on the principal and that each month I could own $25 worth more of the house than before. I had never considered interest.

The first thing that bobbed up to hit me in the face was an insurance notice three years with a premium of $39.
The man who sold me the house was also an insurance agent and I feel very sure that he is a man who is going to succeed in life.
My next little surprise was a mess of taxes amounting to $67.35. I had never thought of taxes. But the city has a way of remembering such things.

When we had pawned the family jewels and paid the taxes, the city decided to put in a sewer system and pave the street. I really hadn't looked at the street at all when I bought the house, only at the inside of the house and took it because it had a beamed ceiling in the dining room and an outdoor sleeping porch. The

POULTRY EXHIBIT IS IN FULL SWING NOW

ASIDE FROM REGULAR ENTRIES THERE ARE MANY INTERESTING NOVELTIES.

JUDGING COMMENCED

Various Classes of Birds Being Passed on By Experts—Attendees Fairly Good.

Five brand new chicks, gently feathered by a good old capon, are to be seen at the poultry show this week. It is a rather extraordinary sight to see these little birds so early in the season, sound and healthy and appearing so young. They are not more than a week or two old and were especially hatched for this exhibit. They have been placed in a cage at the front of the auditorium and continue to attract the interest of most of the other guests. These and numerous other curious exhibits make the show of more than ordinary interest to the general public. Those who miss the opportunity of seeing this show will miss what is considered by those who know to be one of the best in this part of the country. It is by far the best exhibit given by the poultry association.

The show is in full swing with fifteen hundred exhibits in more than one thousand cages. Great interest is centering there now that the judges have begun their work of scoring the birds and the ribbons are being distributed. Judges G. R. Roberts of Fort Atkinson and Charles Keeler of Winamac stated that the show presents the work of scoring the birds and the ribbons are being distributed. The judges are now scoring the birds and the ribbons are being distributed.

Up to this noon the judges had finished scoring all of the special feature exhibits and had begun to size up the different varieties of chickens. The ribbons have already been tacked onto the cages of the winners in the bronze turkey exhibits, all of the pigeon exhibits, Maltese, Roman and Pekin ducks, and most of the geese. The work of scoring is an art that is acquired after long experience and the men who are judging at the local show are well known to the members of the poultry raisers' world.

The process of scoring is based on the American standard of perfection. Each bird is entered at one hundred percent and cuts are made for various imperfections. Every physical feature of each bird is taken into account, symmetry, weight, condition, comb, head, beak, eyes, ear lobes, neck wings, tail, breast, body and feet. The total score of each bird is the highest score remaining after the deductions for imperfections. Every physical feature of each bird is taken into account, symmetry, weight, condition, comb, head, beak, eyes, ear lobes, neck wings, tail, breast, body and feet. The names of the owners of the prize winners will be posted shortly and it is expected that many local breeders will be numbered among the takers of the blue ribbons.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

It would seem that that old top said a monthful when he pulled the one about "sweet are the uses of adversity." The truth of which is sometimes seen in our national diversion. As a rule, when a player has the wash basin tied securely to him and is bidden to beat it out, the average fan dopes it out that the poor player is doomed for aye. However, all of such is not true. In the case of youngsters sent back to the sticks it frequently means that they will come back to the big show and make good with a vengeance. The fortnightly pay envelope in the minor leagues will not buy pink autos and other luxuries of the major leagues and the young player yearns heartily for the fatter pieces of change. Determined to make a record that will bring him back to the big show, he works his head off, develops faster and finally lands a regular berth with one of the big town teams. It often works out this way and big league scouts pay particular attention to the tin can element playing in the hick leagues. There are lots of them who have shown promise, but not quite enough pep, and after being demoted to the minors they often acquire the latter.

The lightweights of this broad land are up on their haunches, good and peeved, and you can scarcely blame 'em. They are beginning to complain in a way that can't be ignored—that the welterweights are cramping their stretch for them. There seems to be too many welterweights posing as lightweights and raising the poundage of the class. Legitimate lightweights who fight at 135 are angry at heavier men who weigh in at any weight they choose and make the grade a whole lot steeper for those who are really lightweights. Perhaps the Packey McFarland incident at Milwaukee did more than anything else to stir the ire of the lightweights. McFarland, it is known is a heavy welterweight, and for some time past has been meeting smaller boys and getting away with it. This has brought about a demand from legitimate lightweights that every man should fight in his class and prove his weight. Promoters, they point out, have been entirely too lenient with the heavier boys and it's time someone took drastic measures, as they say in New London.

Jim Delehanty relates an amusing anecdote of a little incident that took place in a game with the New York Americans when he was playing with Washington. At least a contemporary says it's amusing. Well, let's have it. Walter Johnson was pitching for the Senators and up to the ninth inning they had a two-run lead. However, some very ragged support in the last stanza gave the Yanks two runs and Johnson had to trot out at that. Delehanty had batted a couple in the mix-up and had practically landed the New Yorkers' tallies, but wishing to reassure Johnson he walked over and said to him: "Never mind, Walter, we'll get the next two." Johnson gave Delehanty a look. "Go back to your kennel, I'll get 'em myself." And he did. The next two fanned.

They have a basketball team of Chinamen in Cleveland. Recently they were challenged by the Silent Five, a team of deaf mutes. No one else seems very anxious to play them.

The Giants have signed a Cuban boy wonder for next season. It is declared by one and all who have seen his sport on the baseball green that he is a real sure-enough wizard. Moreover, he's just a kid, seventeen years old five feet eight in height and very slender and boyish in appearance. The new little boy's name is Emilio Palmero. It is to be hoped that the pitchers won't make the mistake of doing a war-whoop when he walks to bat.

HIGHS PREPARE FOR FREEPORT CONFLICT

Hard Drill Last Evening at Close of School Inspires More Confidence in Locals.

Following a drill, lasting for two hours, yesterday afternoon at the close of school, the Janesville high school basketball quintet were inspired with a little more confidence concerning the outcome of Friday's struggle at Freeport. Although the five realize that a defeat would not mar their chances in any way in Wisconsin, they are determined to win, because there will be an honor at tached to them if they can win. After defeating the Chicago champs, namely the Lane Technical school five, the Freeporters are boasting of already holding championship titles. Janesville must wrest this title from her Friday night, and become superior over the Chicago high schools. Only a score standing about 3 to 2 will decide this, at least a score which would give the locals the game through superior team-work and basket shooting.

The locals will be aided considerably by the large floor at Freeport. On the other hand, the team has been formed a custom of the five, and while the team has not been officially picked as yet, Hemming, Atwood, Dalton, Stewart and Rau have been used fairly steadily for the week. Stickney and Barnes are slated for Local Star Ten Pin Men Entered in Five Men Team Contest, Doubles and Singles—Bank Five Defeated.

Entrance fees for the Janesville bowling team was paid to the Madison officials yesterday afternoon and this city will be represented at the state tournament which will be held at Madison from January twenty-seventh until February ninth. Neighbors will captain the team and the other four bowlers picked were: Abraham, Merrick, Cook and Osborn.

On February third, the five men team will roll for scores, starting at nine-thirty o'clock. On February fourth, at ten o'clock, the team will be divided into two teams. Neighbors will captain the singles men's contest all the Janesville men will compete with the exception of Merrick. This contest is scheduled at twelve-thirty o'clock February fourth.

Over two hundred teams have been listed for the meet, every city of importance being represented by at least one team. Beloit has named two and Fort Atkinson will send four in an attempt to land the big money prizes. About fifty teams are expected from Milwaukee and over that number from Madison. The Janesville men should be on the lookout for a prize winning showing. Elmer Lee of Janesville, has entered the tourney with a Milwaukee team.

The First National Bank five were defeated by the Maroons in their session at Miller's last night, the bankers being trimmed after three exciting games by thirty-two pins. An attempt to close in on their opponents in the last lap, beating out the victors by thirty-six pins. Finneran, of the winning five, was high man with 180.

On Friday night, Neighbors and Osborn clash in a private duel with Kueck and Heise. Gazette bowlers, and a close tilt is expected. The winners of this match have been challenged by the Lee brothers. On Thursday night the All Stars will invade Beloit to cross teams with the line City second team. On Friday night the first team will attempt to even the score with Beloit at that place.

POPULAR DRAMA IS GREETED BY FULL HOUSE LAST NIGHT

"Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's Greatest of Plays, Scores Decided Hit at Myers Theatre.

"Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's master production, was presented at the Myers Theatre last evening, before a packed house, only standing room being available at the time the first act opened. This is the second time the play has been presented in this city this season, and the attendance was almost double last night over the past performance.

When ex-President Theodore Roosevelt commented upon this great melodrama by thanking the author for the origination of the production, he meant a great deal by it. A play that has been running wild for three years throughout two continents, with an almost endless success, a play dealing with the little but terrible things that happen not only in New York City, but all over the universe, must have a moral to it that stands out above any other drama of recent years. And that is just the case for "Within the Law" is a modern up-to-date melodrama, which is vital and vigorous, telling how a poor shop girl, after striving for five years to gain a livelihood of six dollars a week in a large New York department store, is sent to prison for three years for stealing an act which the girl knew nothing about. Last night this girl whose name is Mary Turner, makes a plea at the close of the first act which brought the large crowd to tears. Jane Gordon, who takes the role of Mary Turner, satisfied the entire audience. She is fitted for the part, and she handles the various situations with excellence.

Perhaps the character which attracted the most earnest attention outside of the role of Mary Turner was William Lambert, the criminal. He acted the part of Joe Garson, the criminal, who feared that he would be captured for some wrong which he had previously done. In the last act, he admitted that he killed Eddie Griggs, and saved Mary Turner from further trouble, who had blamed her husband, Richard Gilder, of the shooting.

Every character was of a high class. Miss Eileen Lambert, as Agnes Lynch, inspired laughter throughout the evening by using her favorite slang expressions, besides being a clever crook, who had served for blackmail some years before.

Wilson Reynolds as Edward Gilder, the manager of the "Emporium," a large New York department store, at which place the goods were stolen by Helen Morris, and placed in Mary Turner's pocket, with a stern business man, with hard heart. In fact, the entire cast of nineteen characters were exceptional in their acting.

BADGER BASKETBALL SQUAD QUARANTINED

Members of Wisconsin Basketball Team Exposed to Scarlet Fever Returning from Indiana.

Madison, Jan. 14.—Every member of the University of Wisconsin basketball team was exposed to scarlet fever on the return trip from Indiana yesterday.

All the members of the fraternity were in the house at the time except Paul Egbert of La Crosse. The prisoners included Smith, Diggle, and Haas of the basketball team.

Whether the rest of the team will be placed under quarantine depends upon the decision of the board of health.

BUSINESS OFFICE OPEN SATURDAY EVENINGS.

WEATHER FORECAST.

In this vicinity the weather will continue cloudy tonight, but Thursday will probably be fair. The temperature will continue rising today and tonight. Brisk southwest winds, shifting to west, are to be expected.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

"In commercial circles there is a more confident spirit, which, though not yet resulting in any larger volume of business, bodes well for the future. Trade conditions are known with few exceptions to be generally sound because of the conservative policy of the past year or so. There has been no over-production of merchandise, and overdoing in speculation outside of real estate. As previously stated in these advices, the United States is in a better position than any other country in the world to lead a trade revival."—Great Britain and Germany still being in the slowing-down stage.

"An important and very encouraging feature is that President Wilson is known to be struggling in favor of giving business a chance to recover, and now that so much has been accomplished in the direction of tariff, currency and trusts, he is strongly inclined to curb unnecessary new legislation and give business the freedom it sadly needs for recuperation. His forthcoming anti-trust message will be anxiously awaited in order to see if such expectations are sustained. In the textile trades improvement is already noticeable. There is more activity in cotton goods, and distributors' shelves are so bare of stock that good buying will be necessary to meet the demand of a prosperous West and South. Last year's fall harvest and good prices have unquestionably saved those sections of the country from the depression which for the last six months has been so severe in the East. In the steel trade there are symptoms of having turned the corner. Some liberal orders have been placed during the last few days for finished steel and rails. As yet the railroads have not entered the market with any freedom for well known reasons."

Henry Clews, the New York banker, thus discourses on the business outlook, and the tone of his financial letter is encouraging. The fact is well known the retail stocks throughout the country are abnormally light and that many factories have been unable to accumulate surplus stock. These conditions are most satisfactory, and will tend to maintain prices and preserve profits. They also mean that the business of the country is well in hand.

The country is already adapting itself to tariff changes and the new banking laws are not likely to cause serious disturbance. If congress pursues a conservative policy in attempting to regulate big business interests there is no reason why prosperity should not continue.

THE ERA OF REGULATION.

That we are passing through an era of regulation, such as the country has never before experienced, is recognized on every hand, and that Wisconsin leads the procession is equally apparent to residents of this reform-infested state.

Fifty commissions now hold forth at the state capital, and their emissaries infest the soil like grasshoppers engaged in all kinds of detective and inquisitorial work.

After regulating our finances through a tax commission that never sleeps, we are now having our morals overhauled through a vice commission created by the last legislature to give some more of the hungry boys a chance at the pie counter.

This commission is now making a tour of the state, and lately visited the city of La Crosse where it stirred up a hornet's nest among the manufacturers, as will be seen by the following dispatch, under date of January twelve.

"A scathing attack on the state vice investigation as it is being conducted, was made today in a set of resolutions drafted by a committee of the Manufacturers and Jobbers' club."

"The resolutions condemn the method used to procure evidence, call upon the city fathers to witness the process to apologize for their alleged reflections upon factory girls of La Crosse, and appeal to Gov. McGovern to order that the hearings be conducted in the future in secret."

The investigation caused the manufacturers to appear in the roll of the most immoral men in the community, and indicated that the commission was evidently looking for trouble. Men generally find what they are looking for in any city. The man with a thirst, and the price, never had any trouble in satisfying it in prohibition Maine.

The vice commission is the latest to be sprung on an unsuspecting public. How many more are to be launched, time alone will tell. Isn't it about time we called a halt?

HUMAN INTEREST.

The writer and the speaker who appeals to the heart, is always sure of an appreciative audience. The following story of Schumann-Heink, the great singer, shows that she is intensely human.

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink has won the music-loving world with her great singing, and has won all the rest of humanity—made music-lovers of them—with her great heart and her plain, unassuming humanity.

Among all the really great operatic stars, she perhaps is most gifted in that wonderful quality that we know as "adaptability." She will win the hearts of any audience that is the first step she takes in preparing for a successful appearance.

At Charles City, Iowa, one summer afternoon, this great singer was to sing. The Chautauqua was held in a large tent. The surroundings of a chautauqua tent are such as to peeve a great many singers who mistake temper for temperament, in themselves. But Madame knew she must have their love if she was to win them and sustain her prestige as a great singer.

Hardly had she prepared to sing before a baby near the front row of seats let out a raucous whoop that would have disconcerted a person of less poise, broad human sympathy and good sense. Shaking her finger at the child she said:

"You hush, or I'll spank you!" At this the audience laughed heartily. Looking archly at them, and no doubt thinking of her own well-mothered brood, she said: "Oh, maybe you don't think I can do it! I know how!"

That audience was "for her," throughout the concert. The human touch, followed by the Schumann touch, had made the occasion a brilliant success.

The new building recently erected by the Los Angeles Examiner, is not only modern in every respect, but no expense has been spared in making it one of the most attractive buildings in the city. While Mr. Hearst is more cleverly denounced than any other publisher in the country, the popularity of his publications indicates that yellow journalism is in growing demand. The yellow streak in humanity is broader today than ever before and this is the constituency that Mr. Hearst cultivates.

The army of ten thousand idle workmen, which has besieged the Ford factory at Detroit, ever since its proprietor broke into the field of philanthropy, presents a pathetic sight, and suggests that possibly his idle millions might have been more evenly distributed. There are many good men out of employment, and it is difficult for them to understand why one class of men should be paid twice what they can earn, while they are out in the cold with nothing to do. Wise philanthropy is a many-sided proposition.

The controller of the treasury has ruled that a man's place of residence is where his wife lives. It will bother some men to figure out whether it is the automobile, the afternoon bridge party or the theater.

Senator J. Ham Lewis is a member of the commission for safety at sea. Next to seeing him command a ship during a storm, it would be worth living a lifetime for, to see him serving as a lighthouse.

Some women as well as men are money mad. A New York girl has cheerfully forfeited a fortune of $2,000,000 in order to marry a plumber.

It isn't the high cost of living that is bothering Mexico, but the high rate of speed on foot that is necessary.

Women are becoming more independent all the time. Some of them have adopted suspenders as a means of self-support.

Considering the state of the egg market it is surprising that nobody has started a movement for the government ownership of hens.

With the crown prince on his hands, Kaiser Wilhelm seems to have adopted the watching-and-waiting policy as well as President Wilson.

Excellent oranges are offered on the Janesville market at present, several shipments being imported of the prize quality fruit from California. ## The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

SOME DIFFERENT KINDS OF SILENCE.

HOW many different kinds of silence there are! The dictionary helpfully defines silence as the state or act of being silent. Further investigation discovered that "silent" means "free from sound or noise, absolutely still." "Freedom from noise" sounds like a purely negative quality and not at all variable, doesn't it? Yet it seems to me that many silences are positive. And surely you have noticed how much one silence may differ from another in quality. For instance, take the silence of a church during the prayer; and the silence of a crowd of spectators at a football game during the instant while the ball is in the air after a kick.

Again, the silence in a perfectly empty room is quite different from the silence of a room which has an occupant, no matter how still he may be keeping. There may be entire freedom from noise in the second case as well as the first, and yet when you enter the second room you feel the different quality of the silence. The silence of the woods is quite different from the silence of the woods in winter when the trees are bare and there is snow on the ground is somehow quite different from the warm summer silences.

When I was a child we often used to go into the woods early in the morning on Sunday. A favorite walk took us to the top of a hill whence we could see the town and cities for miles around, although we were too far off to hear any of the city noises, except the church bells. We would point out the various objects of interest to each other, taking a child's delight in finding "our house" among the clusters of dwellings. And then my father would always say "See how quiet it is. Isn't there something more peaceful about the silence on a Sunday morning than on a week day?" And sure enough, it did seem as if the Sunday morning silence gave us a richer sense of peace and serenity than the silence of week days.

Quite different from any other silence, I am sure even the most matter-of-fact will admit, is the hush that falls just before a great storm breaks. There is a quality of tension and suspense in this hush that is as different from the silence of peace as black from white.

Again, what a difference there may be in the quality of the silence which falls between two companions. I well remember one day when a good friend and I went out to walk in the woods. We started to argue on a matter on which we never agree, and after a few useless attempts to convert each other we saw the hopelessness of it as usual, and fell silent and walked the rest of the way in silence. We were not angry, but neither were we in harmony, and the silence was full of the quality of constraint. A few days later we took the same walk again. This time we were in perfect harmony but not in the mood for speech, and so again we were silent. But what a different silence it was, a silence that lay between us not like a pall of constraint, but like a bond and a benediction.

So silence, like everything, is subjective as well as objective and takes its quality from mind as well as matter.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
The washing should be brought in as soon as dry, as clothes whipped about by the wind soon wear out.
If you happen to have old bolster cases they can be utilized as covers for ironing boards very nicely.
If you want to heat a flatiron in your room, a tin plate over the gas jet will enable you to heat the iron twice as quickly.
When buying fowls for fricassee never allow the butcher to splinter the bones by chopping with the cleaver. Ask him to remove the sinews from the legs and cut through the joints.

THE TABLE.
Custard Pie—Whip light, the yolks of three eggs with half a tablespoonful of sugar. Pour upon them two cups of boiling milk, stirring the custard in slowly. Flavor with a teaspoonful of vanilla. Line a pie plate with paste, brush the inside with the white of an egg, pour in the custard and bake.

Fried Turnips.—Peel and slice young turnips, dropping them into a pot of boiling water and cook for twenty minutes. Drain carefully, so as not to break the slices. When cold, dip each slice in beaten egg, then in salted cracker dust and spread all upon a platter. Let them stand for an hour and fry in deep boiling fat to a golden brown.

Timid Cooks.—Cook hot boiled rice in slightly buttered tinable molds; let them stand in hot water for ten minutes; run a pointed knife around the sides; turn from the molds and serve with garnish for curries, soups, or boiled fowl.

Buttered Sweet Potatoes.—Boil sweet potatoes and peel them. Lay in a deep dish and upon each potato put a teaspoonful of butter. Set on the oven and heat until the butter sizzles about the edge of the dish. Then send to the table.

Current Cake.—Sift together three cupsful of pastry flour and three level teaspoonsful of baking powder. Cream one scant cupful of butter with one and one-half cupsful of sugar, adding the sugar gradually, and the well-beaten yolks of three eggs and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Add to this one-half cupful of milk alternately with the flour and last of all one cupful of cleaned and floured currants. Bake in a moderate oven about fifty minutes.

Salmon Cutlets.—Mix equal parts of cold baked salmon and hot mashed potatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Shape in the form of cutlets, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs again; fry in deep fat, and drain. Arrange in a circle, having the cutlets overlap one another, on a folded napkin. Garnish with parsley.

Egg Custard for Decorating.—Separate the yolks from the whites of two eggs. Beat the yolks slightly, add two tablespoonsful of milk and a few grains of salt. Strain into a buttered cup, put in a saucepan, surround with boiling water to one-half depth of cup, cover, put on the back of range and steam until the custard is firm. Beat the whites slightly, and a few grains of salt and cook as yolks. Cool, turn from cups, cut in thin slices, then in desired shapes.

Snow Pudding.—Beat the whites of four eggs until stiff, add one-half tablespoonful of granulated gelatin dissolved in three tablespoonsful of boiling water, beat until thoroughly mixed, add one-fourth cup of powdered sugar and flavor with one-half teaspoonful of lemon extract. Pipe lightly on dish, serve with boiled custard.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

If you have not tried growing a small brush, giving a thorough coating, when dry brush off, and a new "dead" is the result.

If you have a colored gown with lace yoke and the yoke has soiled you can clean the same without ripping it out by placing under the yoke a clean white towel, folded several times. Dip a soft toothbrush in soapy water, scrub the lace well, being careful not to touch the colored part of the gown. After the soap has been used brush with clear water. The towel will absorb the dirt and the yoke will be fresh and clean. Hang on a coat-hanger to dry.

When your children's light suits become too worn for best, still are too good to discard, dye them dark blue and they can be worn every day until actually worn out. The dyeing will lessen your laundry work and, providing you follow directions and do not spare the salt, the work will be satisfactory.

You can make your dusting easier by covering a child's broom with a dustless cloth and using it on wainscoting, or the bottom of table chairs or any place where you would have to stoop to dust; that is if you are not in need of the stooping exercises to add to your keeping your figure. Housework is about the finest work there is to employ different muscles. We did it knowing this, the health and clean the white velvet toys of the children. Simply apply paste with a

--and the Worst is Yet to Come

Foreman's Gentle Hint.
A gang of laborers was employed digging a mysterious ditch across the street. It was a sewer or a place to put a gas pipe or something. One man in particular was working as if he were a chorus man in a play, just going through the motions and pretending to dig a ditch. The foreman came along and spoke to him. "Don't be afraid," he said, with rich sarcasm. "Lean on th' shovel now an' th'n. If it breaks I'll pay for it!"

Endurance.
Whether it may seem paradoxical or not, it is a fact in our nature that, without endurance, life ceases to be enjoyable; with out pains accepted, pleasure will not be permanent. A life from which everything that has in it the element of pain is banished, becomes a life not worth having or worse, of intolerable tedium and disgust.—James Hinton.

A Happy Bald Headed Man

Well-Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has Heavy Growth of Hair.

Tells How He Did It.

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and ready wit, surprised his friends by appearing with a heavy growth of hair, many of his old friends did not know him and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the remarkable growth of my hair to the use of the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can mix at home: To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair but removes dandruff, scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out. It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost."

FOGS

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Swash."

A FOG is a thick spot in the atmosphere, which makes it only about as transparent as a street car window.

Fogs are caused by a disagreement between the earth and the atmosphere. When the earth is warmer than the air, it sends up vapor which the air does not want and tries to return by "condensing" it. The warmer earth, however, keeps it from returning and so the poor stuff hangs betwixt and between like Harry Thaw hunting for some country which wants him.

Fogs are very inconvenient, blotting out familiar landmarks and railroad signals and causing trains to wander through each other in the same block with the utmost of abandon. Navigating the North river, off New York, in a fog and a ferry to return by "condensing" it. The warmer earth, however, keeps it from returning and so the poor stuff hangs betwixt and between like Harry Thaw hunting for some country which wants him.

Fogs are a great curse on the ocean, and each year dozens of ships try to butt their way through the British Isles with the most harrowing results while burrowing through the opaque horizon. The most famous fogs are those of London, which are adulterated with coal smoke and bus drivers' language, and which are so thick that the puzzled pedestrian leaves a waite behind him like a steamship, as he cruises warily from curb to curb.

However, the densest fog is the one which surrounds Washington during a season of Congress. It is so dense that a congressman is often unable to see the situation in his district even by reading the home newspapers.

If fogs could be trained and managed by the weather department, they would be a great blessing. If a permanent fog could be trained around the tops of some of Chicago's most utilitarian skyscrapers, they would not cause the lover of good architure to gasp so painfully as he passed them.

Tiny English Church.

The smallest church in England at Fairfield, Romney Marsh, was visited recently by the archbishop of Canterbury. The building, an ancient one, is isolated in a meadow surrounded by water. The six painted box pews were filled with visitors. The primate preached from a high pulpit, and his head nearly touched the oak beams.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please tell me how to take black and brown spots out of a sink.

(2) When a young man proposes to a girl what is the girl to say?

(3) I am eighteen years old, weigh 170 pounds and am five feet two and one-half inches tall. What will make me thin?

(4) The new law passed in Wisconsin about a man getting a health certificate before he gets a marriage license—does that mean for a girl, too?

Conomowoc.
(1) If the stains are not very bad, coal oil will take them out. Otherwise, make a strong solution of washing soda with boiling water, or take lye, and clean the sink with this. Be careful not to put your hands in the solution, tie a cloth to a stick and use that for washing the sink out.

(2) If you want to say Yes, say it! If you don't want him, tell him No as gently as you can.

(3) You are heavy for your height and age. Better go on a diet, good rule is to eat only half of what you think you want. Eat no fattening foods such as potatoes, cake, fat meats, candy, etc.

(4) This applies only to men.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of seventeen, have brown eyes and hair.

(1) I am very much in love with a boy two years my junior. Is it proper for me to keep company with him?

(2) Is it proper to play kissing games at a party, if the hostess does?

(3) How is the best way for me to curl my hair without injuring it?

(4) How can I clean a black and white velvet dress? Also a blue velvet coroucy?

BROWN EYES.

(1) Gracious, my dear! Can't you find a man to go with instead of a kid? If I was seventeen years old I wouldn't try to keep company with a boy of fifteen.

(2) The hostess should not set such a bad example. Kissing games spread dangerous diseases. For the sake of your health, refuse to join in them.

(3) You can put it up in kid curls; don't make them tight.

(4) Send the black and white dress to a professional cleaner. I doubt if it could be cleaned at home without the black running. The coroucy could be dipped in gasoline or steamed, but I should prefer to send anything in velvet to a professional cleaner, to get good results.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old with dark complexion, brown eyes and brown hair.

(1) What shade of either brown or red crepe de chine (excluding terra cotta) would be becoming for a street or afternoon dress?

(2) I shall be seventeen in a month or so. Do you think that I am too young to wear my hair up if I have older unmarried sisters?

(3) I have black rings under my eyes. Do you know what they come from?

(4) It takes me three or four hours to fall asleep at night. Is there any help for this?

G. B.
(1) Select a rather dark shade.

(2) No. But make it very simply and don't try to look too "grown up."

(3) You may not be well, better have a talk with the doctor.

(4) You may be nervous, and you may be going out too much, or not eating the right food. Better have that talk with the doctor, my dear.
